Good Shepherd Sunday

Frescos of The Good Shepherd from the Catacombes of Priscella (left) and the Roman Catacombes of Marcellinus and Peter (right).

By Robert Kinyon

Depictions of the Good Shepherd are among the earliest and most prevalent forms of Christian art. The early Christian were reluctant to produce artistic representations of their faith for two reasons: (1) it was illegal to be a Christian and, by extension, to produce Christian art, and (2) the Church had yet to decide upon whether it was appropriate to represent God via images.

For these two reasons, we can see in the above images how the representations of the Good Shepherd lack a certain physical accuracy in their depictions of Christ, a historical figure. Of particular note, we can see how Christ is shown clean-shaven which is rich in symbolic and theological imagery for two reasons: (1) It presented the essence of Christ's person to a culture that was different than the one in which He revealed Himself. Ancient Roman citizens were well know for their disdain for unkept appearances, especially for those who never shaved whom they called "Barbarians" which literally means, "those who have beards." To paint Christ with a beard would, therefore, run the risk of proclaiming the faith in a needlessly unattractive way.

(2) More importantly, presenting Christ in a beardless fashion speaks to His eternal personhood. Long before Christ chose to become man, He already existed as the Second Person of the Holy Trinity, the Son. Such an eternal existence is essentially youthful, that is to say, "ageless."

In the paintings above, we see the ageless and eternal Son of God standing among his creatures while placing one of them upon His shoulders. In the "Incarnation" (God becoming man in Jesus Christ), God places the lost sheep, humanity, upon His shoulders and carries it home. The image of the Good Shepherd is, therefore, like a snapshot of salvation history: Our eternal God chose to become man at a particular moment in time so that we might be united to Him for all eternity.

May we hear His voice this week and find rest within the verdant pastures of His embrace.

Shepherd and Lamb

By Dr . Scott Hahn
Readings:
Acts 13:14, 43–52
Psalm 100:1–3, 5
Revelation 7:9, 14–17
John 10:27–30

Israel's mission—to be God's instrument of salvation to the ends of the earth (see Isaiah 49:6)—is fulfilled in the Church.

By the "Word of God" that Paul and Barnabas preach in today's First Reading, a new covenant people is being born, a people who glorify the God of Israel as the Father of them all.

The Church for all generations remains faithful to the grace of God given to the Apostles, continues their saving work.

Through the Church, the peoples of every land hear the Shepherd's voice, and follow Him (see Luke 10:16).

The Good Shepherd of today's Gospel is the enthroned Lamb of today's Second Reading. In laying down His life for His flock, the Lamb brought to pass a new Passover (see 1 Corinthians 5:7), by His blood freeing "every nation, race, people and tongue" from bondage to sin and death.

The Church is the "great multitude" John sees in his vision today. God swore to Abraham his descendants would be too numerous to count. And in the Church, as John sees, this promise is fulfilled (compare Revelation 7:9; Genesis 15:5).

The Lamb rules from the throne of God, sheltering His flock, feeding their hunger with His own Body and Blood, leading them to "springs of life-giving waters" that well up to eternal life (see John 4:14).

The Lamb is the eternal Shepherd-King, the son of David foretold by the prophets. His Church is the Kingdom of all Israel that the prophets said would be restored in an everlasting covenant (see Ezekiel 34:23-31; 37:23-28).

It is not a kingdom any tribe or nation can jealously claim as theirs alone. The Shepherd's Word to Israel is addressed now to all lands, calling all to worship and bless His name in the heavenly Temple.

This is the delight of the Gentiles—that we can sing the song that once only Israel could sing, today's joyful Psalm: "He made us, His we are—His people, the flock He tends."

Pastor y Cordero

Hechos 13:14, 43–52
Salmo 100:1–3, 5
Apocalipsis 7:9, 14–17
Juan 10:27–30

La misión de Israel, ser el instrumento de salvación de Dios hasta los confines de la tierra (ver Isaías 49:6), se cumple en la Iglesia.

Por la "Palabra de Dios" que predican Pablo y Bernabé en la Primera Lectura de hoy, está naciendo un pueblo de la nueva alianza, un pueblo que glorifica al Dios de Israel como Padre de todos.

La Iglesia por todas las generaciones permanece fiel a la gracia de Dios dada a los Apóstoles, continúa su obra salvadora.

A través de la Iglesia, los pueblos de todos los países escuchan la voz del Pastor y lo siguen (cf. Lc 10,16).

El Buen Pastor del Evangelio de hoy es el Cordero entronizado de la Segunda Lectura de hoy. Al dar Su vida por Su rebaño, el Cordero llevó a cabo una nueva Pascua (ver 1 Corintios 5:7), liberando con Su sangre a "toda nación, raza, pueblo y lengua" de la esclavitud del pecado y la muerte.

La Iglesia es la "gran multitud" que Juan ve en su visión de hoy. Dios le juró a Abraham que sus descendientes serían demasiado numerosos para contarlos. Y en la Iglesia, como ve Juan, esta promesa se cumple (comparar Apocalipsis 7:9; Génesis 15:5).

El Cordero gobierna desde el trono de Dios, albergando a Su rebaño, alimentando su hambre con Su propio Cuerpo y Sangre, llevándolos a "fuentes de aguas vivificantes" que brotan para vida eterna (ver Juan 4:14).

El Cordero es el eterno Pastor-Rey, el hijo de David anunciado por los profetas. Su Iglesia es el Reino de todo Israel que los profetas dijeron que sería restaurado en un pacto eterno (ver Ezequiel 34:23-31; 37:23-28).

No es un reino que ninguna tribu o nación pueda reclamar celosamente como suyo únicamente. La Palabra del Pastor a Israel se dirige ahora a todas las tierras, llamando a todos a adorar y bendecir Su nombre en el Templo celestial.

Este es el deleite de los gentiles: que podamos cantar la canción que una vez solo Israel podía cantar, el Salmo gozoso de hoy: "Él nos hizo, Suyos somos, Su pueblo, el rebaño que Él apacienta".
